ARTIST PROFILE

KURT ROTZINGER

In 2003, Kurt Rotzinger suffered a stroke. Before his injury, he was an architect. The stroke left him with severe aphasia and paralyzed on his right side. Since then he picked up a love for painting and has been using his left hand. His artwork inspires us by showing what can be achieved when you don't give up!

Kurt explains, "It is still difficult for me to communicate, so my art helps me express myself. I hope you enjoy it!"

Kurt has been featured many times at the SDBIF Friendraiser and Friday Night Liberty events, and we are glad he is back this year!
